Questions for Lesson 2 - Wednesday, September 13

On Being Presbyterian by Dr. Sean Michael Lucas

“God is King: The Sovereignty of God”

1. Was there ever a time when you struggled with the belief that God is the King? What was the turning point in seeing this as a “delightful conviction”?
2. Do you feel at times that God is distant from his creation? How does the affirmation of God’s providence comfort you in the midst of pain and struggle?
3. How does the Presbyterian commitment to God’s providential control over life provide us with confidence, assurance, and meaning as we look at our lives and human history? How do we relate our confidence that God is in control over all events in our lives with our inability to discern necessarily God’s intent in these events?
4. In what ways do God’s rights as King in your salvation encourage you in God’s grace? How does this strengthen your assurance in God’s care for you?
5. How would you answer a friend who claimed that Presbyterians cannot share the gospel effectively with their neighbors because no one can know whom God has chosen?
